

Vicki Christiansen

Vicki oversees regulatory aspects of forest practices, geology and earth resources, wildland fire protection, and service forestry programs on state and private forestlands in Washington state. As State Forester, Vicki represents Washington at the national and state level in advocating the practice of sustainable forestry and the protection of forest lands.

Cassie Phillips

Cassie directs strategies for Weyerhaeuser's forest stewardship and issue management, forest certification, and relationship building with governments, environmental groups, and other stakeholders. She has over 25 years of experience in environmental negotiations and public policy, and played a lead role in Washington's Forests and Fish Agreement negotiations, as well as in other consensus agreements among multi-stakeholders.
